

CREATING A SPIRITUAL CULTURE OF GENEROSITY IN YOUR CHURCH

The creation of a congregational culture of generosity is the result of intentional planning and ministry. The annual stewardship campaign and special capital campaigns are like the icing on the cake. In the creation of a culture of generosity the focus is on the cake not the icing. Sadly, most money-talk in churches focuses on the icing; how do we make more icing, how can we become more creative in decorating the cake? The creation of cultures of generosity takes time.

Three ingredients are essential in baking the cake of generosity:

1. Leaders, who teach, preach and talk about money with theological and financial integrity.
2. Congregations who, in their business practices, model organizational accountability and financial transparency
3. Donors who are committed to living their faith with thoughtful generosity and charitable intentionality

Pastoral leadership is the lynchpin in the generosity triad. Without pastors who are committed to the hard work of leadership in the face of serious challenges, cultural transformations will not occur.
