

DIVERSITY IN THE SPIRIT

Sharing Stories with Openness to the SPIRIT OF CHRIST

When the wind of the Spirit blew at Pentecost, the walls of the house disappeared and the crowd began to understand the words of God in their own language as they came from the Apostles' lips. Walls and languages represent barriers unless we cross them prayerfully and openly. What better way than for a diverse group of people to take a trip together to the National Museum of African American History and Culture in Washington, D.C. for the express purpose of seeking the light of Christ as it illuminates the stories we share.

Our story as a people in the United States is filled with chapters that are as complex and diverse as we are, yet as simple and open as we wish to be with each other.

Join us on a trip of discovery: who we are, who we are to each other, and what we can become together in Christ.

Please contact Magalene McClarrin at 516-623-9561 X 203 or Jimmy Hulseley at 631-265-5151 to let them know of your interest and leave contact information.

The two day trip (leave Friday return Sunday afternoon) is scheduled for February or early March 2018. Once we have a solid number of people who are interested and available, we will confirm the dates, cost, travel arrangements, and other information.
